Scott Bennett works with business owners and shareholders, executive management, and business partners to provide legal expertise in construction law, and business and commercial litigation. Scott's construction law practice focuses on bringing effective and efficient resolution to matters including claims, disputes, and collections. Clients include general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, manufacturers, and general businesses.

A tenacious litigator and negotiator, Scott's unwavering desire to achieve the best possible outcome for his clients is exemplary. He has a natural flair for strategy and is well attuned to implementing this effectively. Decisive and responsive, Scott is thorough in his preparation and confidently attacks issues with forethought and vigor. Above all else, Scott offers prudent business advice and pragmatic solutions to ensure clients are able to make informed decisions.

CONSTRUCTION LAW FOR PUBLIC AND PRIVATE WORKS

For general contractors and subcontractors, the business pains caused by delay, disruption, and defective work claims are common. So too are disputes over the validity of public contracts, bid protests, and collections issues. Scott understands. He understands the facts and evidence necessary to prove such claims. And he understands that maintaining healthy business relationships may be just as important as resolving matters monetarily. With Scott in your corner, client frustrations are minimized, claims and disputes are mitigated, and beneficial resolutions are achieved.

COMMERCIAL LITIGATION

"Business friendly" is seldom listed among California's better qualities. One needs to look no further than to our business and commercial clients for confirmation.
